“I recognize that I am now a member of a university community committed to creating and maintaining an environment supportive of (all) people… It is the responsibility of every community member to celebrate diversity beyond mere tolerance of differences.”
Diversity in our community inspires many campus events. In addition, the city of Burlington, where UVM is located, is active in promoting and celebrating a variety of cultures. Burlington has a growing population of Africans, Asians, and East Europeans – and a reputation for being one of the most progressive cities in America. Montreal, a global center for multiculturalism, is only a 90-minute drive from campus.
